has been received of Montevideo special of December 22 says that news has been received of a flath, which began on Wednesday, between the government troops and insurgent forces from Santa Catharina. Gen. Saraiva's men had joined with those under Sahardo, making a total of 3000. The fighting took place in Itajahy, the insurgent divisions being led by Gens. Insurgent divisions being led by Gen Pinhero, Michado, Luna and Martins, According to the latest reports, the rebels lost 400 men, but had the government troops so badly penned in that surrender seemed unavoldable. rebels are well armed, heving lately received 200 rifles and guns, brought from Rio on board the Aquidaban. The Republica is taking on coal, and is almost ready to sail. It is rumored she is coming to Montevideo to fight Peixotto's squadron, gathering there. One of Mello's steamers, the Meteoro, is reported ashore at Barra. While she was reconnoitering the harbor en-trance she ran aground, and the gov-ernment artillery there, which has forty guns, opened fire upon her, and kept up the cannonade until all of the were killed. NOT CREDITED AT LONDON. LONDON, Dec. 22.-The reports that Rio de Janeiro has surrendered to the insurgents are not credited here. In-quiry at the office of the Eastern Telegraph Company elicits the information tured the rebel warship Madere WASHINGTON, Dec. 22.—The government has received no advices indicating the capture of Rio de Janeiro, though it has been believed for some time that Peixotto was losing ground and llable to serious reverses at any time. The officials are inclined to think that if decisive results had been reached Capt. Picking would have een heard from.

At the Brazilian Legation, the report is doubted, but the ordinary daily mes-sage had not been received, and, ap-parently, something had occurred to delay it.

Dr. Zeballos, the Argentine Minister, says that Buenos Ayres is the New York of South America, and would undoubtedly know of such important results as are rumored in Brazil. He has received no advices, and doubts the report. He says Mello and Gama have no force strong enough to capture Rio while Peixotto has 6000 soldiers to repe taken some outpost or part of the city.

Manifesto Which Rabid Frenchmen Pre-pared at a Safe Distance.

PARIS, Dec. 22.—(By Cable and Associated Press.) The Associated Press has obtained a copy of a violent manifesto which the French Anarchists in festo which the French Anarchists in London have secretly prepared for distribution in Paris. The manifesto says:

"This first dynamite explosion will not be the last for you wretches. Since 1871, when you converted Paris into a charnel-house, and massacred 35,000 proletariats, the republic has been turned into a den of thieves directed successively by the scoundrel Thiers, the brute MacMahon, the thief Grevy, and the mankin Carnot, while the poor hounds below were condemned to white slavery or to die of starvation in the streets.

Operator Finally Roused-Work

By Telegraph to The Times. PITTSBURGH, Dec. 23 .- (By the Asrociated Press.) News has just reached here from Homestead that a disastrous cave-in has occurred in the new addition to Carnegie mills. Fourteen men are said to have been killed, and others seriously injured. The accident happened shortly after o'clock this (Saturday) morning, but was 2:35 before the news reached this city. No particulars have been received up to 3:45 a.m., and very little possible, as telegraph and telephone offices are closed, and there are no trains moving at this hour. Later .- A telegraph operator at the city farm, a short distance from Homestead, has just been raised. He says the accident happened in the new addition to the Carnegie mill. Fourteen or fifteen are killed. Two dead have been taken out, and three injured. He could not tell how the accident ecurred, and was unable to leave the office. All efforts to get at the Carnegie people have failed. It is known that they have been making extensive improvements, and were rushing their work along, working night and day with a view to having the new departments ready by the time the great plant resumed after the holidays.

Later .- 5 a.m .- The report has nfirmed. The foundations of the new buildings caved in, and fourteen men were buried under thirty feet of earth. Only two have been taken out, and twelve are still missing. An army of rescuers is at work, but at 5 o'clock the bodies of the others are not yet recovered, and their names are not obtainable now. Great excitement prevails, and fully two thousand people surround the works, among them the wives and children of the men buried. The scene is pitiful. It may be hours before the extent of the disaster is known.

get a judicial determination of the le-gal right of the Commissioner of Pen-sions to suspend a pensioner from the rolls came up today in the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia. It was brought in the form of an appli-cation by Charles D. Long, Justice of the Supreme Court of Michigan, for a mandamus to compel Commissioner Lochran to restore him to his full rating of $72 per month. Justice Bradley issued an order on the Commissioner to show cause why mandamus should not issue, thewrit being returnable today. The matter was argued by counsel.

Hopkins, who opened for the petitioner, spoke of the legal aspects of the case, and then vigorously attacked the pension policy of Commissioner Lochren and President Cleveland, declaring that the first administration of President Cleveland, vigorous will be reliable to the commissioner will be reliable to the case of the case, and the commissioner will be reliable to the case, and the case of the case, and the case, and the case of the case, and the case of the case of the case, and the case of the case, and the case of the case of the case, and the case of the case o dent Cleveland was narrow, illibera

CHILD STEALERS.

Some Peculiar Letters Found on the Street.

Planning to Kidnap Cleveland's Daughter and to Get Even With the President-A Crank Who Talked About His Rights.

By Telegraph to The Times. ABILENE (Kan.,) Dec. 22.—(By the Associated Press.) Two letters which were picked up on the street here by were picked up on the street here by a country-woman, have been handed to the police. One from Topeka, dated December 10, says:

"We have concluded to make two jobs of the White House business. We will take the oldest child first. We can get her all right. The police consider the letters the work of cranks. A queer-acting individual, who was around the city, early in the week, declaring he would soon be rich, is supposed to be the recipient of them. He has gone East and has not been located.

WRITTEN IN SINCERITY.
ST. Little attention was paid to him, and he went on East, say-would be heard from. Wednesday, in one of his haunts, two letters were picked up, but not until late last night were they given to the police. The letters are evidently written in all sincerity, and had been through the mails, though the enve-lopes were torn so that the addresses could not be read. That the gang re ferred to means what is intimated cannot be doubted, but the ability to carry out the plot is problematical. The stranger, who, it is pretty certain, had the letters, was careful to give no e, and search for him seems una vailing after the delay.

Cold-blooded Crime Recalled.

Mrs. Andrew Foy Relates the Particulars

Of the Relations of the Four Conspirators.

Coughlin Declared She Would Be Protected.

The ex-Detective Boasted of Fooling the Authorities-The Woman Cross-exam She Creates a Good Impression as a Witness.

Eu Telegraph to The Times CHICAGO, Dec. 22.-(By the Associated Press.) Pale, and evidently in great fear, Mrs. Andrew Foy appeare on the witness-stand at the opening of the Coughlin trial this morning, with a policeman near to guard her against

The defense objected to her testimony on the ground that evidence by the wife is calculated to implicate her husband in the crime. The understanding was that she would tell of a series of meetings at her house at which Coughlin was recognized by all as . leader, and that her husband after-ward confessed at these meetings that a plot had been formed which led to Dr. Cronin's murder, and that her husband took part in the plot, and was present shortly after the murder wa committed. Judge Tuthill finally decided to admit Mrs. Foy's testimony, her evidence to be confined to what she saw and to what she said to any of the conspira tors. The examination then proceeded amid the most profound attention on the part of the audience, which filled the room, and with constant objections from the defense. Her story, in sub-stance, is as follows:

She knew Coughlin, Martin Burke Patrick Cooney, all of whom, she said, had been at the house. Coughlin appeared there first in March or April, 1889. He visited her husband several times and they talked in whispers.
During one of the visits she surprised her husband and Coughlin while latter was reading a letter aloud. She caught the words, "Remove him at all hazards, but use your discretion." Witness then told of two Cooney at which he and her husband held whispered conversations, always with the door closed. Martin also vis ited her husband and talked with him in private. He came again on the night of May 6, 1889, two days after the Cronin murder. This was bitterly fought by the defense, but the couried decided to admit it, saying it would instruct the jury that it merely tended to show conspiracy but did not bear or Conghlin's guilt. Continuing, the witness said Coughlin called on say 12 and the called him that she was afraid her husband had been arrested.

Coughlin replied: "Oh, there's no alled on May 12 and asked for her Coughlin replied: "Oh, there's proof against Andy. He's all right." "I said." continued Mrs.

"'Coughlin, this is an awful thing you have done. Dr. Cronin will do you more harm dead than alive.' He laughed and said that I need not worry. 'There's no danger,' said he, 'but you will be taken care of anyway. Don't worry.' "I asked him who was to take care of me and my little children. 'Oh,' he said, 'don't mind about that. Alexander Sullivan is a good friend of your husband and of me and he will take care attorney resuming the examination and then followed a buzz of comment among spectators at this startling statement.

The witness continued: "Coughlin came once before that time and told my husband what luck he had in fooling Capt. Schaack and Schuettler about Dr. Cronin's body and where they put it."

Witness said that Coughlin had several times assured her that there was no danger of her husband being molested. He told her that if she would keep quiet, she would be well taken care of. This ended the direct examination, and cross-examination began counsel going minutely into details as to the relations of Mrs. Foy with T. P. Conklin, wife of the man with whom

Dr. Cronin boarded. The cross-examination of Mrs. Foy continued throughout the afternoon session. She bore up to the end with out once losing command of her ulties. Her story seemed truthful, and she proved herself a person of more than average intelligence. All talk of her alleged insanity seems unfounded. An unprejudiced observer would not think her other than sane. The dam-ning evidence she gave grew stronger under cross-examination.

The story by each witness was made more effective by the efforts of the defense to break its force.

Telegraph to The Times. SALT LAKE, Dec. 22.-(By the Assostated Press.) By the presence of mind and prompt action of several members of Hoyt's "Trip to Chinatown" company, a terrible tragedy was averted at the Salt Lake Theater this evening. About 9 o'clock Oscar B. Young, the crazy son of the Mormon prophet About 9 o'clock Oscar B. Young, the crazy son of the Mormon prophet, Brigham Young, burst open the door of the theater boxoffice. Before the astonished treasurer and manager could collect themselves, Young strode the theater, around to the stage or, and dashed across the stage. The curtain was down, and the actors were dressing for the second act.

In the first dressing-room he broke in the door and stood frothing in passion before Harry Connor, the Welland Strong of the play. After trying the of the door again, he demanded the key of Connor. "I'll teach you to go to New York and talk about the Danites," he said. With a torrent of oaths the madman pressed upon Connor. Instantly recognizing that he was in the presence of a madman, Connor

It was an eight-room, two-story house, on a lot 25x90 feet. No servant girl was employed there regularly, Mrs. Goodspeed's daughter attending to the housework and cooking, and a woman being hired, when necessary, to do the extra work. He denied emphatically that he had ever acted as chambermaid for Mrs. Goodspeed, and created considerable amurement by defaulty tossing his head at Judge Silent, and demanding: "Who told you that?"

He admitted having borrowed $1000 from Mrs. Fratt, at the same time herorowed a similar sum from Mrs. Goodspeed, about three years ago, but insisted that six months later he repaid the money to Mrs. Cross, whose sister, he was sorry to say, was not able to receive it.

Judge Silent thereupon asked witness to identify a check for $1000, signed by Annie A. Fratt, and indorsed by himself, dated November 21, 1889, which was offered in evidence.

Upon redirect examination, Dan stated that, after indorsing the check, he gave it to either Mrs. Cross or her husband. He did not go to the bank at all himself, but received the money in gold up at the house from Mrs. Cross. He did not pay any interest on that loan.

The petitioner, Mrs. Lucy C. Goodspeed, was then called. She testified to the effect that until September 22 last, when Mrs. Mansfield filed charges against her, she had never received any intimation that her good name was to be assailed. She testified to the effect that until September 22 last, when Mrs. Mansfield filed charges against her, she had never received any intimation that her ground filed to the effect that until September 22 last, when Mrs. Mansfield filed charges against her, she ha

Judge Murphy's court, in San Francisco.

A number of letters were then read to Mrs. Goodspead, and she was called upon to explain the circumstances under which they were written. The anonymous letter previously referred to in this case was shown her, but she indignantly denied having written it, and stated that her father, subsequent to writing the letters read in court the other day, had discovered its author.

She denied that she had ever spoken disrespectfully of her mother at any time, to any human being, or that she had ever asked or received a cent from her mother.

Mr. Hannon then created a diversion by calling upon the other side to produce any letters in Mrs. Goodspeed's handwriting they might have in their possession.

Mr. Campbell smilingly retorted that

Mr. Campbell smilingly retorted that that was not the time or place to raise any general drag-net call of that kind, and the court remerked that if the contestant had any documentary evidence it would doubtless be produced, provided coursel for the other side specified, what they wanted.

Proceeding, Mrs. Goodspeed said that she had frequently visited her mother at Mrs. Mansfield's house, and had not been interfered with, but was never allowed to see Mrs. Pratt alone, Mrs. Mansfield or the nurse always watching her.

Mansfield or the nurse always watching her.

Mr. Hannon questioned his client about her mother's condition, but Judge Clark interrupted him, and announced that he had appointed commissioners to visit and examine Mrs. Pratt, and had instructed them to do so without speaking to members of the Mansfield family, or any one alse, upon the subject, and that they would report to him, so that there was no longer any necessity to go into that question. She was then asked as to the position of her apartments in the Brunswick Hotel, as to publicity, but again the court interrupted the examination, remarking:

"I'll state for the benefit of counsel that there were well certainly assume that the court will certainly assume that there was nothing improper in the relations between Mrs. Goodspeed and her servant, Dan Sullivan." whereupon Mr. Hannon turned his client over to the other side for cross-examination.

It being then 4:55 o'clock, however,

MIDWINTER FAIR.

Business Booming at the Headquarters-Pre-Mr. Forman telegraphs from San Francisco that, owing to heavy rains, work on the Southern California building is being delayed. Business is booming at the Mid-winter Fair headquarters, getting out winter Fair headquarters, getting out a perspective of the Los Angeles county space in the Southern California building as it will probably appear. In the foreground the huge column of olive oil and the walnut tower are conspicuous features. The triumphal arch stands out in handsome proportions, with the mammoth ear of corn and pyramids of wine rising on either side slightly in the rear. The great central figure is the elephant surmounting the arch, complete with housings and how-dah—an imposing fellow, even in black and white on paper. It is easy to imagine how much greater his glory when he comes to be tricked out in nuts and fat oranges. Back of all the portieres are shown, their sections to be worked in with semi-tropic fruit in rich colors, formics a wear.

are shown, their sections to be worked in with semi-tropic fruit in rich colors, forming a very effective whole.

Yesterday, in response to a telegram, Mr. Wiggins went up to Redlands and met the Midwinter Fair Committee and the Town Council. A very entusiastic meeting was the result, the object being to get definite information as to what could be done by that section at the coming exhibit. The Finance Committee was much pleased over what mittee was much pleased over what was accomplished. It is expected to have a special Redlands feature at the exhibition, although the nature of it is not yet decided. An exhibit will also be made in the Horticultural Building, in competition with the rest of the State.

C. N. Andrews, a resident of Red-

C. N. Andrews, a resident of Redlands, was yesterday appointed manager of the San Bernardino county exhibit at the fair, to be assisted by Mr. Wood of Ontario.

Mr. Howland of Pomona called at headquarters and stated that the tower upon which the display of olive oil is to be made is about completed, and will be ready for early shipment. Its base is 6x6 feet, its elevation 17 feet. It will be painted cream white, striped with gold trimmings. Pomona will furnish the olives and olive oil.

Corn and nuts will be contributed by Rivera and Whittier; honey by Monrovia; oranges will be drawn from the entire county, and a magnificent lot is expected.

The relief map is designed to be one of the immense features of the whole exhibit in point of attraction. It is being gotten up-in fine shape, and will have an admirable location under the gallery.

There seems still to be some misur-ing gotten up in fine shape, and will have an admirable location under the gallery.

There seems still to be some misunderstanding as to the entries which can be made competitive. No competitive entries can be entered in any of the county buildings, with the exception of citrus fruits, and those only when the Citrus Fair is in progress. Any individual, organization or county can make a competitive exhibit in the Horticultural building by paying $1.50 per square foot for such space. Any individual, however, desiring to make exhibition in the State classified competitive exhibit in the Horticultural building can do so by paying a merely nominal rate, probably 10 cents a plate.

THE MONEY MARKET.

There is another reason why the real estate business should be rather dull at present. Many people are awaiting to see what will be the immediate future of the money market. It is just six months ago this week since we had the flurry among the banks when a large number of six months' notices of withdrawal were given to the savings banks. In spite of the fact that the banks have notified depositors that they can have their money, a good many people are somewhat anxious to see how the matter will turn out when the banks are called upon to pay up. Comparatively few depositors have taken advantage of the banks' offer because there was too much of a string tied to it. Those who want to draw their money found that in order to do so they would have to lose their interest for six months. THE MONEY MARKET. for six months.

The lesson which many savings banks so they would have to lose their interest for six months.

The lesson which many savings banks depositors have received during the spart year will undoubtedly have the effect of lessening such deposits at least for some time to come. A good many people seem to have had the idea that they could put their money in the banks, draw their 5 per cent. interest, and get it with interest up to date at any moment they chose to call for it irrespective of the prevailing condition of financial affairs. These people forget, that in order to earn the interest which they receive upon their money, with a little over for expenses and profit to the banks, the latter must put the money out, and must have a reasonable time to call it in, especially when times are hard or panicky and money is difficult to get. It may be regarded as a good thing should some of the large depositors in our savings banks be induced to withdraw their money from these institutions, which, as The Times has frequently shown, were never intended to become depositaries for men of large means. The fact that there are so many wealthy people on this Coast who have not the courage or enterprise to invest their money in legitimate business industries, but put it in a savings bank and let the bank earn for them interest which they should have the brains and energy to earn for themselves, is one of the reasons why it is often so difficult to obtain capital from our local men for enterprises which not only promise undoubted safety and good profits to the investors, but would also materially assist in building up the cities in which they are located. For this reason, as stated, it may be regarded as an excellent thing that many of these people are induced to take their money out of the banks and invest it in some productive enterprises. Doubtless a considerable amount of this money will gradually go into real estate.

Another new would interest which is an enterprise to the investors of the course of the case of the course of the case of the course of the case of th

It is the Fletcher tract, consisting of sixteen acres fronting on Twelfth street, and running back to Tenth, between San Pedro and Central avenue. The first offering will be that of sixteen lots on Twefth street, which are placed on the market at 500 apiece, half cash, and the balance at any time on or before three years. The lots are of a liberal size, being 50x146 feet to a twenty-foot alley. The advantages of "it is true that the abolition of the cluding several magnificent chestnut trees over fifteen years old, and of glant proportions. The advantages of the section in which this tract is located have frequently been referred to in these columns. It is evident that the public is at length "catching on" to the fact that there is a section east of Main street which is worth looking into at present prices. The fact is that the section between Main street and Alameda, south of Seventh, with its high elevation, and dry, loamy soil, would have been better adapted in many respects for the aristocratic quarter of the city than the southwestern corner, which is becoming the bon ton district of Los Angeles. However, the magnificent improvements which have gone up in the southwest, and the poorer class of improvements which have settled that question. There is, however, still room for a pleasant and attractive residence quarter to be built on the east side, and it possesses the further great advantage of cheapness, so that the homeseeker who wishes to get a good-sized lot upon which he may have an attractive lawn, garden, chicken-yard, and some fruit trees, can here find what he wants at half the price which he would have to pay for a smaller lot twice as far out in a southwesterly direction. As low prices always have the effect of attracting population, it cannot be expected that this large difference in values will continue very much longer.

STREET RAILROADS.

An encouraging sign of the times is the continued activity in street-rail-road enterprises. Several new projects were mentioned last week. On Monday last, the Main-street and Agricultural Park Railroad Company asked for a franchise for a period of fifty years, for the purpose of constructing an electric street railway over the following streets: Commencing at a point on Santa Fe avenue, opposite the Santa Fe passenger depot, thence southrly along Santa Fe avenue to Third street, to Hill, to Eighth, to Olive, to Eleventh, to Pearl, to Eleventh, to Georgia Bell, to Sixteenth, to Bush, to Hoover, to Freeman, to the city line.

While the great railroad systems of the city have been investing millions in extending their systems, making big improvements, getting into the hands of receivers and amalgamating, the old Main-street system, the pioneer line of Los Angeles, has been jogging along in a quiet, unobstrusive manner, running its horse or mule cars at frequent intervals from early morn until after midnight. From time to time there have been reports that the system would be changed from horse-power to electricity, and it has been generally supposed that the line would soon be acquired by the electric company. From the above application, however, it appears that the Msin-street company is not "out of the ring" by any means. The route of the new line, as outlined in the above application, however, it making the Main-street company a strong competitor of the electric system for travel to the thickly-settled southwestern corner of the city. It has been hinted that the designs of the company are still more comprehensive than are nect with one of the roads entering the city from the west.

The parties interested in the electric road from the foot of the Sierra Madre to the ocean through Los Angeles are still working on the enterprise, and say the commencement of grading for the road is only a matter of a very short time.

the commencement of grading for the road is only a matter of a very short time.

S. Goodenow, by John T. Jones, his attorney, has filed the following petition to the City Council "The undersigned hereby respectfully petitions you to grant him a franchise for the purpose of operating a single track railroad motive power to be either steam or electricity, as he may afterwards determine, along and over the following streets: in said city: Beginning at First and Hoover streets, and running thence south on Hoover street to Seventh street, east on Seventh street to Alvarado street; subject to any reasonable requirements that you may exact. He would also request that his petition be acted on as speedily as is consistent with good business."

Mr. Goodenow is a well-knowff capitalist, who came here from Chicago about two years ago and built a fine residence on Twenty-eighth street. He, in connection with E. C. Hurd, bought the Hollywood dummy line, which was so well known under the Burkhart management as the Nickle Plate. It runs from the western terminus of the Temple-street cable to Hollywood, and it is now proposed to utilize the spur, which is a part of the old track in this city, and which swings around to the west end of First street. The franchise is wanted to extend this spur over the streets named so as to reach Westlake Park. This will give connection with the electric and cable system line, and will be a very important addition to the facilities for travel to the Cahuenga Valley region.

THE MORTGAGE TAX.

The much-debated question of the abolition of the mortgage tax, which is will be a very important addition to the facilities for travel to the Cahuenga Valley region.

THE MORTGAGE TAX.

The much-debated question of the abolition of the mortgage tax, which is one of the things for which we have to thank Denis Kearney, is being actively discussed just now by real-estate men all over the State. Only a few weeks ago a San Francisco real-estate man had to decline the opportunity of investing $500,000 of New York capital at 5 per cent. net, for the reason that, owing to the mortgage tax, he could not guarantee any fixed rate of interest. On this subject the San Francisco Chronicle recently had the following remarks in its real-estate column:

"The mortgage tax is required of the money-lender to the extent that the mortgage he holds on a property covers the assessed value of the property. If the mortgage is less than the assessed value, the lender pays the tax on the property to the extent that the loan covers that value, the owner paying the tax on the balance. Should the loan be greater than the assessed value, the lender pays on the entire loan. To illustrate the case, if a man has a plece of property assessed at $1500, and has a loan from a bank of $1000 on it, then the bank will be required to pay the tax on the $1000 and the owner on $500. If the property were assessed at only $800, and the bank had loaned $1000 on it, then the bank will be required to pay the tax on $1000, and the owner would not be texed at all.

'Those who favor a constitutional amendment abolishing the mortgage tax, allege that the result will be as broad as it is long to the property-owner. The banks, to meet the mortgage tax, must charge sufficient to cover it, and they naturally make every allowance on the safe side for fluctuations in the rate of taxation. If the tax were abolished, they say, the property-owner would not be called upon to pay any more than at present, and probably less. Where he now borrows at from 6 to 8 per cent., he would have had to pay a tax on the assessed value of his property of $1.8

"It is true that the abolition of the mortgage tax would not only reduce the bank rate of interest to borrowers, but also the rate paid to the depositors. To the latter, especially the people of small means, this little yearly addition to their hoardings is all important, and they might be expected to resent any movement which would reduce their interest. On the other hand, with more capital invested, and more industries started, steadier employment would result, and the opportunity to earn continuously and so to save more largely would be greater."

As the Chronicle was the great champion of the Kearney constitution it can scarcely be expected that it would come out very strongly in favor of the abolition of a law which was considered to be one of the most valuable features of that constitution by its framers, but the fact that so much is admitted shows which way the wind is blowing. Here, in Los Angeles, there is scarcely any difference of opinion as to the advisability of repealing the tax, which, instead of making things easier for the borrower, as was interded, forces him to pay more, and at the same time, keeps out a large amount of Eastern capital, which we should be very glad to get.

OLD-TIME VALUES.

J. W. Potts furnishes the following further installment of interesting rem amount of Eastern capital, which we should be very glad to get.

OLD-TIME VALUES.

J. W. Potts furnishes the following further installment of interesting reminiscences relating to the values. of Los Angeles real estate in early days, together with some common-sense remarks on products and possibilities:

In a recent issue of The Times you give a statement showing something of the advances of real estate in San Francisco in the last thirty-three years, as also some advances in Los Angeles in the last twenty years. I will give you another instance of the advance in the value of real estate here. In 1854 I acquired a title from the city to lot 2, block 22, Hancock's survey, (thirty-five acres) on Adams street, which cost me about $10. I constructed a zanja or ditch from the east side of Main street, near the O. W. Childs place, to the lot, it being the first water ditch ever taken on the lands west of Main street, and made other improvements, in all about $1500. I lost my sweet potato seed that I intended to plant on it, so I left it and went into the merchandise business. The next year a friend wanted to borrow $100, so I mortgaged my land for the amount to W. W. Barlow, interest 12½ per cent. per month. The mortgage is dated the 26th of March, same year, recorded in book 2, p. 256, County Records of Mortgages. My friend cleared $1000 on the transaction, as with it he hauled his crop of wheat to Henry Dalton's mill at the Azusa, and had it converted into flour, which was worth from $19 to $15 per 100 pounds. About four years afterwards. I think in 1869, I sold the lot to John O. Wheeler for $400. This was not making money very fast considering the fact that the use of money then was from 6 to 12½ per cent per month.

At that time, from my knowledge of many matters learned since, I am confident that there could not have been less than $200 per capita in circulation in California. What then becomes of the theory of the gold-bugs, that if money is plenty it will not be worth anything. The facts are that when money is plenty all the machinery that creates wealth is kept in motioa. Everybody can have money and can afford to pay a good price for its use. The thirty-five acres was worth twenty years from the time I bought it about $7000, and today it is worth a half million dollars. My next venture in real estate in Los Angeles was on San Pedro street, just opposite the Wolfskill orchard, about Seventh street. I bought in 1866 four and one-half acres of young orchard for $500 per acre, all cash; no thought of it ever being building lots. What save it its value was the water to irrigate it. At that time it was thought that the water could not be extended much below the Wolfskill orchard. There was no thought of there being much, if any, other land in the county that could be irrigated in the early day was considered worth $500 per acre, and this will be the value of irrigated lands again all through this southern country, from Santa Barbara to San Diego, as soon as there is a demand for all the land that can be irrigated for actual cultivation. Let us see if this assertion is borne out by facts, comparing the productive qualities of our land with other lands in other countries. When I was a boy I plowed land five times for fifteen bushels of corn to the acre, and that one man can cultivate and garner thirty acres, and that his corn is worth 50 cents per bushel, At the end of the year he has 750 bushels, worth $375. One man can much easier cultivate thirty acres here that will produce 100 bushels of corn to the acre will pay 8 per cent. Per annum on. Of course I am aware that there is land in other States that will bring more than twenty-five bushels of corn to the acre will pay 8 per cent. Per annum on. Of course I am aware that will produce 100 bushels of the land are well cultivated, and if flooded by running water in open ditches. After the formative plan the land will never

Commenting on the fact that the at-tempt is made to force upon employers of labor inferior grades of workmen at the same relative rate of wages, with-out distinction as to their merits or exout distinction as to their merits or experience, the Builder and Contractor Says:

"With this state of affairs it is no great wonder that the building trades are flooded with workmen who do not belong there; who, on the other hand, should be relegated to the farm, or some kindred industry, where hands and not brains bring a premium. Trades unions which make rules providing for a certain price per hour for good and bad alike simply open a way for their own competent members to lay idle a portion of the time, and overcrowd the very avenues which should be open only to mechanics worthy of good wages.

"It is, in our opinion, high time that those who have the good and welfare of their fellow-workingmen in charge see to it that some action be taken whereby the employer may use his own judgment in the classification of wages, and pay, without any interference, such remuneration for services as he sees fit, for only under an arrangement of this kind can the competent workman be protected in his rights, and the poor, unworthy mechanic placed where he belongs, and paid according to his just dues." There is sense in this.

THE PLUMBING QUESTION.

THE PLUMBING QUESTION. The following communication has been received upon this vexed question, upon which there apears to be a remarkable variance of opinion. The public as a rule know very little about the business of the plumber, but they hold him in great awe on account of the size of his bills.

"As a builder and owner of small cottages, and as a practical mechanic of twenty-seven years' experience, I ask you to give publicity to the following, knowing that many who have had their plumbing lately done may selfishly think themselves fixed for a while and feel inclined to let the future take care of itself. Those building homes are persons of years and discretion. If they provide against imperfect building otherwise are they not competent to know how their home should be plumbed without interference? If not, then why not? Why all this talk of sanitation? If anything on a man's place is offensive has he not a nose? And if it becomes offensive to the neighbors have we not the proper officers? This anxiety of the plumbers for the health of this, the healthiest of all cities is suspicious, and in view of the master plumbers, plumber supply and Journeymen plumbers' combines, reminds one of highway robbery, and it behooves all fluerested in the principal trade in our town, viz.: house building, to be up and doing.

"What an opening there is here for an anti-combine plumber supply house. Scarcely a pound of so-called "sanitary goods" can be bought in this place by those not in the combine for use inside the city limits. But outside of these magical bounds, presto, change, you can get all the stuff you want.

"House-owners, home-builders and all interested should beware, for the end is not yet; the combine is again longing for the flesh-agts of enormous profits, and will leave no stone unturned to have a worse ordinance (if that be possible) passed than the one so lately defunct.

"The common-sense view of sanitation is quick passage and plenty of air; but they are too cheap. Lumber, labor and lots are low. Labor in the building trades was never as poorly paid. Why pinch all for the benefit of one? A jour. plumber had to have a certificate before he could follow his calling in our midst. No doubt the applicant was required to answer many questions before he reserved his certificate; might have had to locate the capital of Timbuctoo, but that don't help the homebuilder any, and as a rule a man can plek out a good plumber the same as any other mechanic. One of these 'certificated jour plumbers' put me up a left-handed sink, quite a curiosity, intended sending it to the World's Fair. I thought, perhaps, when I paid the bill, that left-handed sinks must have been in that ordinance too, somewhere among the rubbish. The man that put in a sewer to a cesspool rerminded me of the ordinance, and said I was breaking it by having my pipes laid over two inches to the foot. The ordinance, he said, only 'called for one.' The boss plumber said, 'Be sure and keep them vents five foot from that flue, John,' and John measured his 'five foot' most carefully, and there he ran his vent. He might have kept it ten or fifteen feet away, but that would have lessened the bill.
These are three samples of the plumber certificate product. I think they average high. There being no lightning-rod peddlers here, our friends are doing their best to emulate them."

EAST FIRST-STREET WIDENING.
It appears that, after all, there is not age high. There being no lightning-rod peddlers here, our friends are doing their best to emulate them."

EAST FIRST-STREET WIDENING.

It appears that, after all, there is not much chance that East First street will be widened between Los Angeles and Main. At the Council meeting on Monday last, City Attorney Dunn reported verbally that a number of the signers of the protest, who had not at first shown their authority for signing, had since had their authority to do so recognized in the court. It was the opinion of the attorney that, if the Council were to proceed with the widening, the whole matter would probably be tied up for a long time by extended litigation. There were a number of points that might be raised, which, if raised, could not be settled by dany previous decisions of the courts. The cases over these points would have to be tried at length, and be settled for themselves. While he was not prepared to state that the protest was a legal one, yet he was just as much unprepared to say that it was not. His opinion was that it would probably be advisable to abandon proceedings. The matter was finally left over until Monday next. Should the street not be widened, it will double be seen a word of great satisfaction to people who own property on Seventh street and in that neighborhood; but what the property-owners on First street who have opposed the improvement expect to gain by the success of their policy of "masterly inactivity" is something which, as Dundreary would say, "No fellah can make out."

tinue to conduct business down in Chinatown, but their methods are so shrewd that it is almost an impossibility for a police officer to catch them while a drawing is being made, and that is the only time that an arrest can be made with the slightest chance of conviction being secured. Unless the authorities have absolute knowledge that lottery is being dealt, and this knowledge can only be obtained by actually seeing the drawing made, it has been found useless to attempt to prosecute the dealers. It is the same with fan-tan. The Chinamen have lookouts posted whenever a game is in progress, who give the alarm as son as a policeman is seen to approach, and thus, before the officer can enter their den, all have made their escape, and no signs of the play remain.

The Rain.

Los Angeles city and county, in common with the whole of Southern California, was treated to a refreshing and much-needed rain, which began at an early hour in the morning and continued throughout the day.

The rain comes at a particularly opportune time, as the grain, which had been put in by many farmers, has not had sufficient moisture to start it well and many fears had been entertained of this being a late season.

A second Charge.

A second complaint was filed yesterday in the Police Court against E. A. Riman, the charge being for taking fraudulent acknowledgements. Riman already has the charge of forgery hanging over his head, and it is stated that several additional complaints are yet to be filed in order that the case against him may be made doubly sure

The Force at the Castelar-street School Cut Down.

Vacancy in the High School Filled by Election of James M. Henry-The Usual Spicy

The Board of Education met last eyening. Messrs. Platt and Buehler were the only absentees.

A communication from the City Attorney said: "Replying to your inquiry as to whether or not the certificates held by the kindergarten teachers are valid, I am unable to pass upon the validity of these certificates unless they are submitted to me." Filed.

The demands were approved as presented.

On motion, it was decided that the proposition of using Hazard's Pavilion for school purposes should not be ac cepted.

Mr. Trask, of the committee appointed to investigate the discipline of the High School, stated that he had speat three whole days there. He had found the discipline to be first-class, and the deportment to be good. Altogether he was well pleased with the results of his investigations there. The committee was given further time in which was well pleased with the results of his investigations there. The committee was given further time in which to report.

The question of voting bonds for school purposes coming up, the committee appointed to investigate reported having visited a number of schools of the city. The report recommended the enlargement of a number of the school buildings, and the erection of new buildings where it was not feasible to provide additional facilities by the enlargement of existing houses. It was also suggested that if a bond election were to be called, it would be well to make the amount of the bonds sufficient to cover the expense of erecting buildings needed for the next two years. The report was filed, and the committee was discharged.

Mr. Patty moved that the services of the special writing teacher be dispensed with after January 1.

Mr. Stein said that he thought that there might be some other curtailling of expenses. In one of the schools the principal was favored more than most of the other principals, inasmuch as she did not have to conduct recitations. He therefore moved to amend by placing one of the teachers of the Castelarstreet school on the substitute list, and having Miss Dubois hear recitations during one-half of each day.

Dr. Wills and Mrs. Hughes said it would be well, if the board were to start in for economy, to go ahead and dismiss the music teacher and the other special teachers.

Mrs. Hughes moved to amend so as to dismiss Messrs. Housh and Gooch of the High School instead of in the grammar grades.

This amendment being voted down, Mrs. Hughes, in a sarcastic voice, said that the gentlemen of the board did not appear to be very earnest about cutting down expenses.

Mr. Stein's amendment, together with the motion of Mr. Patty, were carried, and Mrs. Hughes gave vent to her feelings in some language decidedly uncomplimentary to those who favored the motions.

Mr. Trask moved that, inasmuch as there was a vacanty at the High School uncomplimentary to those who lavored the motions.

Mr. Trask moved that, inasmuch as there was a vacancy at the High School, caused by the resignation of Miss Lillebridge, James M. Henry be transferred from the Hayes-street school to the High School.

Dr. Wills said that under other circumstances he would be glad to vote for Mr. Henry, but as things were he could not do so.

A vote being taken, the motion was declared adopted by a vote of 5 to 2.

Dr. Wills raised the point that the motion involved an expenditure of money, and required a two-thirds vote to prevail.

BOYCOTTING THE INSURANCE COMPANIES.

The latest attempt at a boycott on this Coast is something of a novelty. A short time ago the establishment of a large wholesale firm in San Francisco was destroyed by fire. Thirteen in-surance companies refused to pay a loss of over $120,000, claiming in the first place incendiarism, and afterwards there had been fraud. A bitter quarrel ensued between the firm in question and the insurance people. Recently many of the merchants in San Francisco, sympathizing with this firm, began canceling their policies with the anies which refused to pay, and e day, it is said, over $500,000 fhwas withdrawn. The Pacific issurance was withdrawn. The Pacific issurance Union now comes to the re-ef of these companies by passing a tringent resolution prohibiting any ompany in the union from rewriting surance that has been canceled to ho are fighting afrm referred to.

The Times approves of a boycott as merchants as when it is waged by mer work for daily wages. In both it is an unreasonable, unneces and un-American system. cease from patronizing any person firm with whose actions he is not sympathy, but the main feature of an organization of people for this puran implied threat-a hint that force of struck with the fist, jumped on, and some kind will be brought to bear to make these people do what they do not wish to do, and what no law requires them to do, and this it is that makes the boycott obnoxious to the average independent American citizen.

As to the question between the San Francisco firm referred to and the insurance companies, without pretending to enter into any discussion as to the merits of this particular case, it may aid that, if the insurance compa nies make any mistake, they are generally on the side of undue leniency. It frequently happens that, in cases incendiarism is more than suspected, losses are promptly paid by the companies, in doing which it often seems as if they were offering a pre-mum to crime. The remarkable fact that such losses increase im-mensely during periods of finan-cial panic is sufficient to show that incendiarism is all too comme The object of the companies, of course is to maintain their reputation for lib when a company gets a name for gensputing losses which it is called pay, it is only natural that its erally disputing lo popularity among property-owners should decrease, whether those prop-erty-owners have any intention of setting fire to their improvements or not.

Meantime, whatever the facts of the ent case may be, the San Franrchants are setting a bad example in resorting to the use of a sys-tem from which they themselves have been such heavy losers,

VALUE OF HOSPITALS

While the hospital investigation is sinder way, it may be remarked that many people have a prejudice against bospitals that is as strong as it is unable. In point of fact, the best see that a man can go to when he seriously sick is a well-appointed, aithfully-located and well-managed cospital. This is recognized by many vell-to-do people in Eastern cities, who refer to go to a hospital rather than o be taken care of at home. The Cincinnati Times-Star quotes a do, namely, inflict pain on her sich Commenting upon this subject, the Times-Star says:

"Next to a mother as an inferior nurse must be ranked the fond wife or sister. The late Prof. Tyndall had for his nurse his devoted wife, and she, in essaying to administer to him two teaspoonfuls of magnesia, gave him instead two teaspoonfuls of chloral, and there was a funeral in consequence. Does anybody suppose that if Prof. Tyndall had been in the care of a professional nurse any such mistake would have been made? It is the business of professional nurses to make no mis-Times-Star says:

FOOTBALL BRUTALITY.

It is no wonder that college professors throughout the country are be-ginning to make a crusade against the game of football, as at present played. It has got to the point where either football or studies will have to go in the colleges. With a large pro-portion of the students football is considered much the more important of the two. It is, however, from the standpoint of brutality and danger to life and limb, that the present fight is being waged against this game by the professors. It is stated that at least twenty-five young men have been killed in America and England while playing football this year and last, and hardly a day passes now that the name of a new victim is not announced. The Chicago Inter Ocean gives the following remarkable list of casualties that have recently occurred on the "gridiron." It reads almost like the account of a

It reads almost like the account of a battle:

"At Delavin, Wis., November 4, John Peterson, a mute, tackled one of the Beloit team, fell heavily, and died of concussion of the brain in an hour.

"A week later, Hugh Saussa, a student of the College of the City of New York, while running with the ball, was downed by half a dozen of the Elizabeth Athletic Club's team, and his neck was broken. The same day Addis Herold of the Richmond (Ind.) Young Men's Christian Association was caught in a scrimmage and his skull fractured. Physicians pronounce him fatally injured. On November 18, Raymond Carew of Toledo fell with the ball. The Adrian College team formed a pyramid on top of him, and he died a few hours later from an injury of the spine. Two other players were seriously hurt in the same game.

"At Farmington, Ct., John White, while playing with Yale seniors, was thrown with terrific violence, other players fell on him, and his body was paralyzed. James F. O'Brien of Manhattan College died in New York, November 24, from injuries received in a football scrimmage, October 11. Robert Christy was killed at Wooster, O., November 24."

It is said that malice apparently en-

There will soon be little to choose between football and prizefighting as far as brutality is concerned. unless some radical change is made in the rules of the game. When the writer was a boy, football was what its name implies. The ball was kicked with the foot, and could not be touched with the hands except under certain conditions that were specially provided for in the rules. A player would then get an occasional kick in the shins, but serious accidents were very rare. There was plenty of lively running over the field, and the game was an interesting one to the spectators as well as to the players. Nowadays, the game has degenerated into a mere struggle for the possession of the ball, and, during a great part, of the time, the teams are piled up on each other in the mud or dust, a confused and struggling mass of sweating, writhing humanity, which cannot be very comfortable for the players, and is cer-tainly not at all interesting to the lookers-on. It should be an easy matter to so modify the rules of football that this healthy game may retain all its excitement and interest, while at brutal features which have become attached to it from year to year.

In this connection it may be mentioned that a meeting of college ath letes has been held in New York for the purpose of taking some action to eliminate the rougher features of the

The good news comes from an apparently reliable source that the long-looked for California and Nevada Southern Railway is to be pushed to completion without delay, and that trains will probably be running into this city by July next. That would be this city by July next. That would be a grand Fourth of July celebration if we could include in it as one of the features the opening of the new railroad to Southern Nevada and Utah. Next to the opening of the Nicaragua Canal, we know of nothing that would give Los Angeles so great an impetus as the completion of this line, the route of which traverses some of the richest coal and mineral fields in the United

THE PROGRESS SLOW

Dr. Hagan's Investigation Not Half Finished.

The Third Day's Testimony as Offered the Board.

Evidence for the Prosecution Approaching Completion.

More Inmates of the County Hospital Rela Their Experiences While at That Institution-Further Hearing Deferred

The investigation of the charges The investigation of the charges against Dr. Hagan, superintendent of the County Hospital, was resumed, yesterday morning, before the Supervisors, G. A. Cortelyou, a real estate man, who lives at No. 1412 West Eleventh street, being the first witness called. He testified that some time ago he had a servant girl named Grace, who beservant girl named Grace, who be came ill and whom his family physician thought to have diphtheria. He saw Dr. Hagan and asked about having the girl go to the County Hospital. Dr. Hagan said at first that he had no place for diphtheria patients. He finally said there was a place where they could put her. Witness took the gir hospital in his buggy on what ieved was Wednesday. He saw believed was Wednesday. He saw Hagan about four days afterward to the hospital in his buggy on what he believed was Wednesday. He saw Dr. Hagan about four days afterward and the doctor said it would be safe to have the girl come away from the hospital. Witness expressed the fear that it might result seriously for the girl to come away so soon and Dr. Hagan said it would be all right for her to stay another week. On what he believed to be the following Monday the girl came to his office and he gave her care fare to go to Boyle Heights-Later in the day the girl came to his house and remained there. Four daysafterward diphtheria broke out in his family and three of his children died from the disease.

Upon cross-examination witness stated that the reason why he took the girl in as he did after she came from the hospital was that the only relative she had in this part of the country was a sister, who was then a long distance from this city. Mrs. Cortelyou had promised the girl's sister that Grace should be looked after, and the girl was accordingly taken. Diphtheria was not prevalent in the neighborhood of his house. There was a cesspool on his oremises, which was about fifty or sixty feet distant from the house. One of his children was any from home for a few days, and it was within a short time after his return that diphtheria broke out.

Thomas Gorman of No. 325 Workman street swore that he was in the hospital on three different occasions as an inmate. He, was in one under Dr. Hagan. When there under Dr. Hagan witness said that he went thege the second time he was not given a bath upon entering and did not have any for the five days that he remained. Witness once saw Dr. Hagan in the hallway and the doctor said there was no knowing how soon he would have to come back there again. Fie (Hagan) would like to have the witness go before the Supervisors and give him (Hagan) a send-off. Witness saw some of the board and stated that he had no go before the Supervisors and give him (Hagan) a send-off. Witness saw some of the board and stated that he had no in the kitchen sufficient to give spongs both she could not say as he never the food. Dr. Hagan once remarked to the witness that the hospital was a place for paupers and not for those who had some means. He saw gambling at the institution indulged in by Dr. Hagan's son, by the nurse named Jones and by Deputy Sheriff Davis. Witness, although suffering from inflammatory rheumatism, was told to get down in the wet grass and dig up weeds. On one occasion he had been working till his shirt was soaked with perspiration and called Br. Hagan's attention to it. The doctor said a little sweat would not hurt him any. The nurse named Jones was a big, powerful fellow and treated the patients in a most brutal manner. He handled them like cattle. Witness saw the steward take from the institution a wringer and a number of sheets. Under Dr. Brainard he was treated much better than under Dr. Hagan. He had heard the cook make a great kick because of having, so he stated, the steward take meat for fifs family from the hospital larder.

Upon cross-examination, witness admitted that he had a small plece of miles and place in the kitchen sufficient in the kitchen sufficient in the kitchen sufficient in the tired it. Witness is with the deadhouse two Diff the deadhouse two Diff the intended times in a filthy condition. It was in a flithy condition. It was it was in a flithy condition. It was also under Dr. Brainard. But he was the was the was flowed by the could give in the was to death with the present of the deadhouse two Dr. Brainard. But he was discharged was meat for his family from the hospital larder.

Upon cross-examination, witness admitted that he had a small piece of property near Elysian Park, on which property he was paying taxes. He could not remember having stated to the Supervisors that he was destitute. Witness did not see Mrs. Landt while at the hospital. She came to see him about a month ago, and asked if he had any statements to make regarding his treatment. He told her he was willing to do so, as he thought it would be for the betterment of conditions at the hospital. Witness would not admit having taken more clothing from the institution than he had with him upon entering, except a pair of shoes given him when there. He admitted, however, that he left the hospital by a side gate. He would not admit that he came to the Supervisors of his own free will, without Dr. Hagan first speaking to him about the matter. He came to the Supervisors and stated that the dinner he had was good. He made such statement because he was afraid that have to good. He made such statement because he was afraid that should he have to go back to the hospital, Dr. Hagan would, in some manner, get even with him. The patient named Libby -reported the nurse named Bliss to Dr. Hagan, for not attending to his dattes. Bliss thought the witness made the complaint, and vented his spite on the witness by waking him in the middle of the night, and in other ways. Witness positively denied having made improper proposals to a colored woman named Fanny Smith, or that Dr. Hagan had overheard him, and immediately reproved him. For breakfast for a considerable time there would be but one egg brought to his ward for four patients. The only way they could get more was for the nurse to steal them. When told to go to work, he carried coal and milk, ground coffee for the whole institution, and did other things. Being closely questioned as to what he was compelled to do, the witness would answer only in a general way that he was put to work, and would not state specifically what the work was. Asked in regard to the gambling which he claimed to have seen at the institution, witness stated that he did not see any money change hands. The game was what he heard called "craps." He heard young Hagan say he had lost, but did not hear him say how much. The nurse, Jones, was intoxicated several times, but he thought not on more than ten occasions. The way he knew it was by the smell of his breath, and the way he acted when he handled him like a football. He heard one of the nurses that had been a patient in the hospital say he "wished the King's Daughters were in h—l." Witness would not admit that Mrs. Landt had stated to him that it was desired to have Dr. Hagan removed, although she did state that evidence was being sought after with a view of having changes made in the management. Witness, however, would consider it a great blessing to have Dr. Hagan removed. The patient named Libby was treated better than his associates. He had whisy and more milk than he needed. He also had more eggs and toast th good. He made such statement because he was afraid that should he have to go back to the hospital, Dr. Hagan

Witness supposed this the reason why he was introduced by Dr. Hagan to a re-porter, and made a statement about how well he was treated, and how much trouble the King's Daughters were stirring un how well he was treated, and how much trouble the King's Daughters were stirring up.

Edward Ward of Highlands, an employee at the hospital, testified that he had seen the steward take away regularly a can of milk with the consent of the doctor, and also saw the doctor take away grain in his buggy when going to his ranch. Witness was not asked at this time and did not say what doctor he meant. He saw wood received at the institution without its being measured so as to ascertain how much there was brought in.

Upon cross-examination the witness stated that he was discharged from the employ of the management for neglect of duty.

Asked by one of the Supervisors as to the milk taken away by the steward, witness said that for a time there was a greater supply of milk than needed, and the steward was permitted to take some to use for his family. As soon as the supply was diminished the steward stopped taking it.

At this juncture a recess was taken until 1:30 o'clock.

AFTERNOON SESSION.

until 1:30 o'clock.

AFTERNOON SESSION.

W. H. Moe was the first witness in the afternoon. He testified that he was employed in the County Hospital as night nurse from 1891 until last July. Comparing the condition under Dr. Hagain with that under Dr. Brainard, the hospital was not as cleanly under Dr. Hagain. However, it was better efter the first two months of his administration, and after the investigation last June than it had been formerly. On account of hot water not being furnished to the wards it was sometimes necessary to put patients into the beds without giving them baths. On one occasion witness chanced to go into a room where Drs. Poet and Murphy Were talking about a typhoid patient. Something was said about the medicine Dr. Hagan had prescribed, and Dr. Post was heard to say that the dose had nearly killed the man, and that it would be a good scheme to throw away the next dose of that sort rather than give it to the patient. Dr. Post also made a remark to the effect that there must be something the matter with Dr. Hagan's head. The patient had a hemorrhage that night.

A brakebeam tourist who was suffering from erysipelas was put in bed without a bath, because there was no

A brakebeam tourist who was suffering from erysipelas was put in bed without a bath, because there was no hot water. The man was dirty enough to have rode on two brakebeams.

Upon cross-examination witness stated that he was dismissed by Dr. Hagan, who wrote a letter to him aying that the corps of nurses was to be represented. eorganized. He did not know till afterward that ng that the corps of nurses was to be reorganized.

He did not know till afterward that he was charged with neglect of durin not cleaning the beds of helpless patients, which charge he denied. He always tried to do his duty, he thought the hospital under Dr. Brainard was a model one. Dr. Brainard would call around the wards with his hat off, and would go quietly without slamming doors. He would also take patients by the haad and be friendly with them. During pr. Hanlard's administration witness never took a patient in without giving him a bath. If the patient were not in a tub, witness would give him a sponge bath. Under Dr. Hagan he could not heat water, for the reason he did not heat water, for the kitchen sufficient to give sponge baths he could not say as he never tried it. Witness kny the interior of the deadhouse two or three times, and it was in a filthy condition. It was also under Dr. Brainard. He thought this condition was because of the students not keeping it as 2 should be. He, of course, heard some complaints under Dr. Brainard, but beard mrny more under Dr. Hagan. There was hot water three days per week. During the night after such days the water would be warm. Under Dr. Brainard to the water would be warm. Under Dr. Brainard to the bard mrny time. Dr. Murphy was at the hospital under both administration and the could get hot water.

he never would take medicine pre-scribed by Dr. Hagan.
Further questioned, witness stated that after he was dismissed from the institution, he was told that the reason he was discharged was that he had scribed by Dr. Hegget the state of the structure of the structure of the state of t to the nursery late-at might, and in a filthy condition, being infested with vermin.

The child was kept in the nursery over night without a bath, and the bed was made up without cleaning or changing the sheets. While in the institution Dr. Hagan suggested that she give her baby to some one else, as she would hardly be able to raise it.

Upon cross-examination, witness stated that her husband deserted her before her baby was born. After the birth of the child she went to the hospital. After she had been an inmate for some time Dr. Hagan came into the ward where she was and wanted to know how soon she would be able, to leave. If she was not able to go, she would not be turned out. Asked as to what she meant, by Dr. Hagan being harsh and upkind & her, witness and mitted that he did not speak unkindly to her. He looked harshly at her. (Laughter.) There were times she did not get sufficient food. At one time she asked for more bread, and the nurse told her the tray was gone. She said they could get, but water but three days per week, but admitted there was a heater whest water could be warmed in the kitchen.

Asked by members of the board, witness admitted that she never spoke to Dr. Murphy about not having enough to eat. She thought it would do no good. Dr. Hagan would scarcely speak to her about herself or her baby when he came to see her.

Dr. Irving U. Parsons testified that he had been assistant physician underpr. Hagan since September 1. He received a salary of $1000 per year. He was 27 years of age, and practiced medicine for a time before coming to Los Angeles. He came to this city last spring. Witness attended a patient named Johnson, at the County Jail. The man was suffering from constipation, and he treated him for it. The man complained of pains in his head. Johnson was afterward removed to the County Hospital, where he died two days later. The cause of his death, as brought out at the Coroner's inquest, was a very small fracture of the skull, which had evidently been caused by some sharp-pointed instrument.

quest, was a very small fracture of the skull, which had evidently been caused by some sharp-pointed instrument. Witness did not discover the fracture in the man's skull until when on the second day of his treatment he was removed to the hospital, where he discovered that the man's skull had been fractured. Witness said there were no particular symptoms to indicate the skull trouble when he first saw the man at the jail. Even had the injury to the man's head been known, witness did not believe that any power on earth could have saved him. Asked in regard to a man named Kavanaugh, who died at the hospital, and in the case of whose death an inquest was held, as to whether death were caused by atropine poisoning, witness said he could not state positively. The man had been suffering from a combination of diseases which might have caused his death. Some atrophale was left on a window-sill so far away from the patient that he would have had to leave his bed to reach it. The man had been taking cough medicine, but that had been kept on a stand nearer to the bed. The cough medicine was taken away from the man.

On cross-examination, witness, being asked in regard to the promptness with which calls to the County Jati were answered by the physicians at the hospital, stated that he thought on cross-examination, winess, being asked in regard to the promptness with which calls to the County Jati were answered by the physicians at the hospital, stated that he thought they had been answered as promptly as possible. When telephoned for he would ask as to what was the nature of the case, and in that way find put something as to how urgent it was. In the case of a man at the County Jall affected with epilepsy, witness was called and told the attaches that it was not a hospital case. The man would have them anyway, and the attendants could care for him as well. They would simply need to see to it that he did not injure himself when he had fits.

At this juncture Dist.-Atty. Dillon offered in evidence the finding of the Superior Court against Dr. Jiagan in the McCloud smallpox case.

Mr. York argued against Dr. Jiagan in the McCloud smallpox case.

Mr. York argued against the admission of this as evidence and it was finally agreed that it should not be brought in.

Mrs. B. Roberts, being sworn, stated that she was an inmafe of the hospital for a while, and had to begin working soon after she entered. Once, when given a tray to carry, she was so weak that she fell. She complained to Dr. Hagan about not being able to work. He smiled some and told her to put some cotton on her feet, of while, she complained. She went to Dr. Murphy and told him about her troubles. He told her to step working. She did a good deat of scrubbing, but was not asked to do it. The only was on the seed of the based of the sason the sason the sason the sason that she do do it. Regular Weekly Meeting of the Board of Directors.

The board of managers of the Young-Women's Christian Association met Thursday afternoon. The association hopes to enter its new rooms in the Schumacher Block by the first of the year, and, as these require complete furnishing, it was very gratifying to find a number of gifts already on hand. furnishing, it was very gratifying to find a number of gifts already on hand. The new quarters consist of six pooms, two suites of three-rooms each, fronting on Spring street, and it is the design to make them very attractive. A neat kitchen will also be fitted up where the serving of luncheons will be a special feature. During the past week, while the stores have been open evenings, a large number of clerks have availed themselves of the advantages offered by the association for an evening meal, a half hour's rest, a little music and a social time. This has in no way conflicted with the luncheons served at the Presbyterian Church parlors, as they are open only by day; and the scene every late afternoon, from 5 to 7:30 o'clock, has been like an informal reception, and has been thoroughly enjoyed, not only by the entertained, but by the entertainers. Bread and butter, cold meats, cooked fruits, homemade cookies and cakes and hot tea have been provided. The table service and all accessories are very dainty, consisting mainly of donations made by those who have the association work closely at heart.

Physical culture classes, and other classes, which have been for some time contemplated, will be organized as soon as the rooms are in readiness.

So favorably has the work of the association impressed those who have learned of its progress, that a gentleman in the city has pledged $25 a month for a year toward its support. Its aim is wide reaching, and the need is great. It is not too early in the history of this movement for its friends to take measures to put it on a sound basis as regards finances.

The Newsboys' Home—A Misuaderstanding.

The Newsboys' Home-A Misunderstanding LOS ANGELES, Dec. 22.—(To the Editor of The Times.) A certain conspicuous establishment on Spring street, with a branch on Main street, advertising a turkey raffle, lately put on its signs the name of the Newsboys' Home, representing that the raffle was for the benefit of that institution. The ladies managing the home wish it to be known that the institution will not be known that the institution will not accept any share in the profits of the gambling concern if offered. The manager of the raffle professed special friendship for the newsbos, saying that he had been one himself, and made representations as to the character of the place which he proposed to open, by which one of the ladies was led to believe that it would be respectable. The place is now closed. If any consent was given for the use of the name of the home, it has been canceled, and the good people who have shown so much geneious interest in the institution are assured, emphatically, that its managers will always guard against any associations of which its patrons would disapprove.

Glover's inselvency.

At a meeting of the creditors of J.
B. Glover, the Rediands merchant, at the Board of Trade rooms, yesterday, it was decided to take charge of his assets, and give him a release, following out the usual procedure in such cases. Mr. Glover's insolvency was kinnounced in The Times Thursday morning, in the Rediands correspondence, when he emphatically denied that he was insolvent, or even contemplated going through insolvency. He was, of course, given the benefit of his denial, which was published yesterday. The facts are that, while, technically, Mr. Glover is not an insolvent, in that he did not go through insolvency proceedings in the court he could not pay nis debts, however, and wanted to compromise at 40 cents on the dollar, paying something like $250 a month on his indebtedness. This was declined by the creditors, who forthwith took charge of his assets and gave him a release. By taking this action, through the Board of Trade, the creditors save the costs of litigation, besides the vexatious delays in the courts.

Lovers of football will be able to witness a close and scientific contest at Athletic Park, Christmas day. The San Diego and Olive teams will line up against each other on that day. San Diego boasts of a strong team, and if Diego baasts of a strong team, and if they are better than the Olives of this city they will put up a strong and scientific game. Football is taking a great hold of the sport-loving people of Southern California, and the more they see the game, the more they like it. The game, Christmas, is under the man-agement of the Los Angeles Athletic Club, which assures its success. It will be called at 3 o'clock sharp.

Attempted Burglary. A man giving the name of Allen was arrested at 11 o'clock last night while in the act of entering Mr. Lockhart's millinery store on South Spring street milinery store on South Spring street by Bob Henderson, a patrolman, and taken to the County Jail. The police went at once to the store as soon as the matter was reported, but the man had already been taken charge of by Henderson, who refused to take him to the City Prison, claiming that due credit had not been given him when he had taken part in similar transactions previously.

Some Tips in Regard to Buying Presents-Where to Buy, What to Buy, and How to Buy
Them—Valuable Souvenirs fer

The good times have come at last, Every one has been out during the past week looking for bargains, and now they have the opportunity to enjoy a feast of them; and bargains of the right kind, too. Not tawdry articles that will look pretty for a week, and then go to pieces, to be consigned to a closet or bureau drawer, but things of genuine merit, novelties in art, in china, in gold and silver, in bric-a-brac, in everything that has a permanent value and will be preserved. The word bargain has been so mi that people are excusable in having but little faith in such sales. They are often only a means adopted for getting rid of old and useless stock. But this sale is a decided exception to the rule. Every article on sale is up to date, made in the Northern Pacific Employees are Opposing Reduction—The Canadian Pacific Makes Another Demand-

J. C. Stubbs, third vice-president of the Southern Pacific, says that the new freight tariff, which goes into effect on January 1, will make an average reduction of 5 per cent. There will be advances in higher grades, but on the most important products there will, in some cases, be a reduction of 15 per cent. Fruits and farm products will experience a general reduction. Manufactured articles will not be greatly affected, and there will be no change in the rate on wheat and other grain.

UNION PACIFIC REORGANIZATION. OMAHA, Dec. 22.—(By the Associated Press.) General Solicitor Thurston of the Union Pacific, in speaking of the scheme of reorganization, said: "There are many plans for reorganization of the Union Pacific property in the air. e general scheme, however, that ms to meet with most favor, is that Union Pacific proper, together with the Union Pacific proper, together with those lines which are properly a part of the system, although classed as feeders, shall be reorganized under Congressional legislation, and subjected to a sale under the direction of the court. The sale is absolutely necessary in order that a new company may be formed that will permit a fresh start being made. With reductions made in the fixed interest charges, the property would be able to pay interest on obligations and principal on the government debt, so that the government security would grow better every year, while the liability would grow constantly less. Should the administration disprove of some features, the theory of reorganization would have to be completely discussed over again. The rights of the government must be sancredly guarded as well as the rights of individuals, and this requires no inconsiderable time."

A NOVEL PETITION.

TOLEDO, Dec. 22.—(By the Associated Press.) A novel petition was filed in the United States Court by the employees of the Toledo, St. Louis and Kansas City Rallroad, which has been in the hands of a receiver since May 22. The petition asks the court to allow employees to receive living wages from the company. It is represented that since the appointment of Rs. ceiver Callaway wages have been systematically reduced, until it is at present impossible for some to provide for their families. This is the first action of the kind ever commenced, and the men say that as the United States Court, would not allow employees of the Ann Arbor road to strike, last spring, they have appealed to it for the interest of the petition for the disbarment of Attorney W. The weather bureau reports that considerable cloudiness prevailed the fore part of last week, with rain during Wednesday night and Thursday morning, and the temperature ranging the averages: the latter part was generally fair and warmer, with drying northerly winds to easterly winds. The rain put the lowlands in fair condition for plowing, but a general and steady rain of several days' duration is needed pefore active farm work can begin.
Oranges are ripening rapidly, and several shipments have been made both by the association and by com-mission men. Most of the oranges shipped so far have gone north, as the Eastern markets are fully supplied with Florida fruit, which is selling at very low prices. The Riverside Fruit Exchange is reported to have been selling in Portland, Or., at as low as from $2 to $2.25 for navels, which is about equal to $1.40 and $1.60 in Riverside, and seedlings as low as $1.25, of conniving at the destruction of colonies of the beneficial parasites which lelivered in Portland. Oranges in Florida are reported to be swelling were brought from Australia by Mr. Koebele to fight against the red and black scale. He has also been charged with seeking, in conjunction with rapidly on account of rains which they have had there. This will probably make the crop heavier than the latest timates. The Florida growers have en rushing their fruit on the market for fear of a freeze later in the season, but the low prices which have prevailed have had the effect of stopoing this movement to a great extent, growers apparently coming to the Mr. Scott to state that, during the fruit hang on the trees and take the chances of freezing as to selling it for such prices as they have been getof late. On this subject the Florda Agriculturist has the following to

"With the present low price of or-nges, there remains but one thing for e growers to do—suspend shipments, at least reduce them very mate-ally. Of course, the fear of a freeze rially. Of course, the fear of a freeze is what causes most growers to rush their fruit into market, acting on the principle that it is better to get something for the fruit than to take the chances of its freezing and getting nothing. This may be a good policy, but we doubt it. Of course, if the fruit was bringing anything like a fair price we would advise continued shipments rather than take the chances of losing it, but when the price reaches as unprofitable point, it might better remain on the trees, a dead loss, than be picked, packed and shipped with the prospect of getting only expenses."

The orange season certainly does not open very auspiciously In fact, open very auspiciously In fact, oranges have never been so cheap as they are at present. For the first time in the experience of Eastern fruit dealers, oranges are cheaper than apples ommenting upon this state of afcommenting upon this state of affairs, the Grocery World says:

"At no time during the past fifteen years have oranges sold as low as apples. A barrel of apples is worth more money today than a barrel of oranges, and three times as many apples can be sold with this discrepancy in price existing. The fallacy of orange-growers and shippers that a scarcity of apples materially advances the prices or the value of the orange, is more clearly demonstrated this year than ever. A man who calls for a barrel of apples will not accept a similar quantity of oranges at the same price, and very rarely can the orange be placed as a substitute, cheap as it may appear. Briefly, the orange is a luxury, and as such, neglected, while the apple can be utilized in so many various ways, as to be considered almost a necessity. ing any formal papers as provided by law; so that the county will now find itself unable to recover the cost of this utilized in so many various ways, as to be considered almost a necessity. With these before us a careful observer must be impressed with the belief that in future the apple orchard promises more than the orange grove."

The new orange-growers' organization will find this season a good test of its power to improve the market for oranges. Not much news of the doings the organization, which has its adquarters in Riverside, has been received here. There is another organization at Redlands which has declined to amalgamate with the Riverside body and this, it is said, has caused a little Redlands people claim that their oranges and the orange-growing conditions of their place are superior to those of Riverside, and that they have nothing to gain by such a union. However this may be it is certain that under the present condition of affairs, it will be necessary for the growers to avoid all sectional differences, and stand firmly together if they expect to accomplish anything.

The quotation for navel oranges f.o.b. is still $2.50, and for seedlings, $1.75. These quotations must be considered as being nominal. Under present conditions of the Eastern market, it is difficult to say when shipments will begin in earnest.

The Scott Investigation.

It was hoped that the examination into the charges against County Horti-cultural Commissioner John Scott, which was commenced by the Board of Supervisors last week would enable the fruit-growers and others to get at the bottom of this vexed question and to settle once for all the bitter and complicated dispute which has created so much dissension among the horti-culturists of the State during the past year. In this, however, we fear that we shall be disappointed. It was expected that several of the State board, including President Ellwood Cooper and Mr. Alexander Craw, the quarantine Mr. Alexander Craw, the quarantine inspector, would be present at the examination, but none of these gentlemen showed up. It is alleged that this abstention on their part is mainly due to influence which has been brought to bear by Gov. Markham, and that it was this same influence which prevented the full discussion of the subject at the recent State Fruit-growers' Convention in Los Angeles. This is hard to believe. Gov. Markham is rehard to believe. Gov. Markham is re-ported to be extremely anxious to har-monise conflicting elements in this always good, because it gets the kind of food adapted to its stomach. Corn is especially difficult to digest. When-ever a corn-fed animal is off its feed it becomes feverish, and this necessa rily affects the quality of its meat and Skim Milk for Pigs.

(American Cultivator:) To ascertain the best and cheapest way for using skim milk for the production of pork has been a part of the work of the Vermont experiment station the past year. Sour skim milk produces as good results pound for pound as sweet skim milk. Hence farmers are not losing money every time the milk sours on the way home from the creamery, and to say that they would be willing to fight for it, if they cannot get it in any other manner. It must, however, creamery men need not go to an expense or trouble to so handle the skim milk as to sterilize it and keep it sweet. Two ounces of cornmeal to each quart of skim milk makes a pound of pork at the least cost of food. A larger amount of cornmeal made a more rapid growth, but an increased cost of food for each pound of pork above its market value. During heavy feeding in preparation for market, twelve quarts of skim milk daily to each pig, with all the cornmeal they would eat, produced a more rapid growth and at less cost per pound than six quarts of milk under similar conditions. A method of feeding during the earlier months which tends to the development of bone, muscle and digestive organs, rather than the formation of fat, provides a foundation on which greater profits will be made when heavy feeding begins in preparation for market. Any method of feeding wilch furnishes bulky food tends to the large growth of the stomach and intestines and a larger percent. of shrinking in dressing. Watery food has the same influence.

Eight pigs in the test increased in live weight 1918 pounds and sold for $13. The grain they ate cost $14, a profit of $39. The grain they ate cost $14, a profit of $39. The grain they ate cost $14, a profit of $39. The grain they ate cost $14, which, subtracted from the amount for which they sold leaves $69 as the amount realized for the 19,712 pounds of skim milk they ate, which is equivalent to 35 cents per 100 pounds. The fertilizing value of the food was $38, or 51 per cent. of its market value. Even at 7 cents per pound, dressed weight, they made no profit during the last period after they weighed on the average 250 pounds a piece, and at ordinary prices for pork, profit would have ceased at about 200 pounds live weight. pense or trouble to so handle the skim milk as to sterilize it and keep it sweet. be a real harmony, which reaches be-low the surface, not such harmony as is obtained by covering up unpleasant facts and agreeing to keep them from the public. A running sore cannot be healed by covering it up and hiding it from view. During the investigation, Mr. Scott read a letter from Gov. Markbelief that an agreement between the shall be very pleased to know that this is so, but, as we have already intimated, no solid and permanent agree-ment will be possible except it is founded upon a full knowledge of the facts—of the rights and wrongs of the case. As long as there is suspicion in the minds of the fruit-growers that mat-ters affecting their interest are being have been made against Mr. Scott by members of the State Board of Horti-

It is reported that an Illinois man gets as much as a dollar a pound from the Union Club of Chicago for the buttre which he sells them. This is a remarkably high price, and there are very few who would be willing to pay much for their butter, however choice it may be, but it is a fact that the quality of butter makes a big difference in the price obtained, while it is also a fact that it costs little, if anything, more to make fine butter than to make poor butter. There is always a good market in our large cities for gilt-edge butter, even when the ordinary article goes a-begging.

The Right Food for Butter. (American Cultivator:) The effect of ertain foods upon the butter deserves considerable attention in the early winter, and anything that will throw light upon the subject should be welcomed. Every dairyman knows that frosted food taints butter, and that butter made from the cream and milk of cows that have not received any grain food is deficient in flavor and taste. It is true that nearly all of our foods have some direct effect upon the butter, and experiments in the past few years have been made to ascertain the actual effect which some of the most prominent foods exert upon this product of the dairy. It is not only quality but quantity that is affected by these foods, and the question cannot be neglected quantity that is affected by these foods, and the question cannot be neglected as one purely chimerical and of little account to the dairyman.

Some of the results obtained by these tests may be briefly considered. Clover have and fine meadow have made account.

Some of the results obtained by these tests may be briefly considered. Clover hay and fine meadow hay make good butter, and improve both quantity and quality, especially when supplemented with good grains. Highland hay is not quite so good, while bad hay is positively injurious, causing the cows to produce milk that will make nothing but tainted butter. Grass and hay in which wild leeks and garlic are mixed are even worse than poor hay, for the disagreeable taste imparted by them to the butter condemns it for nearly all uses. One cannot be too careful in keeping the weeds out of the grass lot, for there are many other wild plants that have nearly as bad an effect as leeks.

In a similar way, excessive quantities of barley straw give a bitter taste to the butter, the pea straw has a tendency to reduce the quantity and to injure the quality. Carrots give good color and flavor to milk and butter, and beet roots mixed with chopped straw give milk that is rich and finely flavored. As to grains, it is found that bran has a tendency to produce butter of a soft consistency, while either cracked wheat or barley produces medium hard, firm butter. Flaxseed cake gives firm butter, but rape cake makes rather soft, and oily cakes are bad unless fed in rather small quantities at a time. More than two pounds a day are not to be recommended. Green fodders and ensilage are beneficial, and affect the butter favorably if fed when in perfect condition. But sour or tainted ensilage should not be given to the milch cows.

The effects of these various foods are demonstrated beyond a doubt by excent ensilage should not be given to the milch cows.

The effects of these various foods are demonstrated beyond a doubt by extended experiments, and in selecting them for rations this fact should be remembered. It is essential to have good butter as well as plenty of butter in these days if dairying is to be made a success, and dairymen should make it a business to study relative values and costs of the various foods. The results of these tests will enable farmers to begin their feeding intelligently, and will probably save them many hardearned experiences. It cannot be denied that Mr. Morton is far from being in sympathy with the farmers of the country. Such being the case, it cannot, of course, be expected that he will be able to accomplish much good, and perhaps the best thing would be to appoint another man in whom the agriculturists have confidence. It is, however, not at all likely that a man so stubborn as Cleveland will yield to the request of the farmers, however well-founded and general-that request may be.

The Training of Helfers,

(Pacific Rural Press:) A dairy is an artificial product. It is as great an improvement upon nature as the finest improvement upon nature as the finest fruits are, and, as with these, it is the result of many years of the most skillful culture. The natural use of a cow is to rear a calf, and as soon as the teeth of the young animal enable it to graze well enough to support itself, the cow no longer gives milk. This is true not only of the wild races of cattle, but also of a large number of the domesticated animals, who, by neglect, have not been trained to the longer and more copious product of milk, but still retain the habits of the wild species to a large extent. This is due, doubtless, to the mistaken habit of permitting the calves to suck the cows, and thus perpetuate the original short period of milking.

most effective way to get rid of the instinctive affection of the dam for its offspring, for when it is taken from the dam as soon as it has been born there is no acquaintance between them, and in a few hours the calf is forgotier. Then, following the regular hand-milking, the milk organs soon become used to the continued effort of the secretion, and, the feeding being correspondingly increased, the yield of milk is kept up until, the next calving approaching, the maternal function exerts its influence upon the dam, and the milking peace upon the dam, and the milking period are made possible and encouraged in the most effective manner.

That this is precisely so may be proved by any person who will take any common cow, which, so far, has been entirely neglected as to this training, and yet young enough to be easily impressed by these unusual methods, and, by subjecting her to a regular and methodical system of milking and feeding—having removed the calf as soon as it was dropped—he will find that the first attempt, even in this training, and yet young enough to be castly impressed by these unusual methods, and, by subjecting her to a regular and methodical system of milking and feeding—having removed the calf as soon as it was dropped—he will find that the first attempt, even in this training, and yet young enough to be castly impressed by these unusual methods, and by subjecting her to a regular and methodical system of milking and feeding—having removed the calf as soon as it was dropped—he will find that the first attempt, even in this training, and yet young enough to be castly impressed by these unusual methods, and by subjecting her to a regular and methodical system of milking in the calf as soon as it was dropped—he will find that the first attempt, even in this training, and yet young enough to be castly in the calf as soon w for eggs are so high that the consumption of them is reduced to the bare necessities. A certain amount will always be used, for they are indispen-sable, but the demand increases largely in the winter months. People are not going to live on eggs or have them served at their breakfast very often when they cost a great deal more than the best meat that the market can afford. The line of improvement for the poultrymen then is in the direction egg-raising in the winter time so that these products may be kept down to a reasonable price, and the demand for them will then be universal.

Feeding Poultry.

(Florida Agriculturist:) By some poulterers it is claimed that fowls can-not be fed too much, that liberal feeding is essential to large egg production This depends somewhat on the way fowls are fed, and, also, on the breed. The Asiatic varieties need exercise and unless this is acquired, which they get by seeking food, they become too fat unless this is acquired, which they get by seeking food, they become too fat and lszy to lay eggs. Scatter their grain food where they will have to "scratch for it" will very well answer this purpose."

Hens, however, require a variety of food in order to lay well. When running at large in summer they eat a little of almost everything that comes in their way, such as worms, and other insects, seeds of all kinds, grass, cabbage leaves, and other green food. It is advisable to feed various kinds of grain, and, also to supply them with green food, especially in the fall and winter seasons, when not accessible to the fowls. Besides being necessary for egg production it also serves to keep fowls in a healthy condition. Therefore, a supply of such green food as cabbage, turnips, onlons, potatoes, etc., should be stored away for fowls in the winter season. Cabbage, ordinarily, is the cifeapest green food, and is undoubtedly the best for this purpose.

The Droppings.

(Farm and Fireside:) Do not allow the droppings to remain in the poultryouse longer than twenty-four hours warm weather, and give off disagree warm weather, and give off disagree-able odors, as well as injure the health of the fowls. If the poultry-house is given a cleaning every day, the work will be easy, as a broom may be used for sweeping the floor, after which dry dirt may be sprinkled over the floor, and especially under the roosts. Scatter the droppings on the garden plat, as they are more valuable when fresh than at any other time.

On a superficial view, farming has been made easier by the increal labor-saving machinery. It is made easier by the increase of mainly for the hired man. His labor is lightened. That of his employer, who is obliged to pay wages, taxes, and meet household expenses, with less net profits than he made ten, twenty or thirty years ago, has been increased. It seems quite likely, too, that the greater amount of land which modern improved machinery enables a farmer to plow, sow and reap, is in part re-sponsible for the decrease of yield and of profit. If we could have large yields used to grow, the present low price of wheat might be made to pay some-thing. But the crop has gone down as well as the price.

The World's Wheat Supply. (American Agriculturist:) The world's wheat supply shows that the annual average crops aggregate 2,280,857,000 bushels, not including some districts known to produce wheat, but from which sta-

Europe producing 3.6 bushels per head. Africa 3.4 and Asia only one-half bushel. In both corn and oats America leads, its production of corn being 19.2 bushels per head, and of oats 6.7 bushels. While there is but little corn grown in other continents, Europe grows more oats than does America, although its average per head of population is two bushels less. Europe furnishes almost all the rye and barley, although in per capita production Africa leads, with four bushels and a half of barley, mostly grown in Algeria and Egypt, and some at the Cape of Good Hope. The average yield of potatoes in Europe, 7.6 bushels, appears somewhat heavy, as compared with less than two bushels per head. In tobacco, of course, America leads, with an average production 5.6 pounds per head of population, Europe coming next, with 1.3 pounds.

The colony of New South Wales had 124 creameries at the end of last year, the estimated value of the plant and machinery exceeding $300,000. The total quantity of butter made at these creameries was 7,661,000 pounds, besides which 10,702,000 pounds were made on dairy farms. To make this total product of 18,363,000 pounds of butter there are 343,500 dairy cattle in the colony.

Sheep farmers in Australia are paying more attention to the production of mutton than of wool, believing that their profits will be larger by increasing their exports of frozen mutton. In order to improve the carcass, various breeds of English sheep have been sent to Australia. The Leicester sheep have proved better than the Lincolns, which are too large, and the Hampshires are more valuable than the large breed of Romney Marsh, while the Shropshires have been found of most value, owing to their small size and heavy fleeces.

In 1891 the Beet Sugar Company was organised and the Refinery built and put in operation at Chino, in a central portion in reference to the property. The result obtained from the operation of the Factory for the few years past shows a remarkable degree of adaptability of the soil to the successful cultivation of the Sugar Beet, both in amount of production and in percentage of saccharine matter, and also in the efficient capacity of the soil to the successful cultivation of the Bugar Beet, both in amount of production and in percentage of saccharine matter, and also in the efficient capacity of the state of the saccharine matter, and also in the efficient capacity of the season of 1895, 1600 ton the saccharine matter, and also in the efficient capacity of the season of 1895, 1600 ton the saccharine matter, and also in the efficient capacity of the Factory by the erection of an additional building and machine the capacity of the Factory by the erection of an additional building and made to suit the requirements of increasing production. The returns for the present campaign have been a total yield of over 15,000 000 pounds of sugar, which have been shipped out as crude sugar to be refined elsewhere.

Under a direct and specific contract between Mr. Gird and the Chino Valley Beet Sugar Company, a corporation which instituted and operates the Beet Sugar industry, they agreed to purchase from Mr. Gird or his successors all the beets grown on the ranch for years to come, and at the present date, about November 18, 1895, before the commencement of the next season, a fixed price is established that the factory will pay for the beets at maturity next season. This insures the planter in the market for his crop, and with the price that is fixed, before he takes any risk in the matter or makes the first move towards turning over the ground.

Orange groves planted on portions of the ranch are coming forward, and olives, figs apricots, prunes, pomegranates and berries, in fact California fruits of all kinds, seem indigenous to the soil. It is also demonstrated that corn, barley, wheat, and in fact all the cereals and vegetables flourish in this soil and attain a high degree of perfection.

The townsite of Chino, located at a convenient point with reference to all portions of the ranch, is a flourishing California town, with telegraph, telephone and express offices, schools and churches. Means of communication and transportation are ample. The Southern Pacific Railroad runs its main line direct into Chino, and is distant from Pomona and Ontario, on the main overland line, and is addition is the proposed extension which is now assured from Pomona, through Chino to South Riverside and Elsinore.

& Co. for membership in the chamber was read, and the firm was elected by ballot of the board.

The Committee on Law and Legislation reported through its chairman, Director Graff, with regard to the Torrey Bankruptcy Bill, that as the bill had been refused by the House, there was no necessity for action upon it. The report was adopted.

A communication was read from Abbot Kinney advising that efforts be made to obtain the various mining exhibits from Southern California, now being collected for the Midwinter Fair, to be used in the permanent exhibit of the Chamber of Commerce at the conclusion of the fair.

The matter was, on motion, referred to the Committee on Mines and Mining. Some discussion took place on the matter of larger quarters for the Chamber of Commerce, and it was moved and carried that a committee of five be appointed to investigate building sites, and the possibility of having a building constructed for the chamber. The following were appointed as such committee: Messrs. E. W. Jones, Lankershim, Elsen, Stimson and Klokke.

The board then, on motion, adjourned.

All About a Bill.

Nicolas Nelleedoff had a whole lot of trouble over the payment of a bill at his place of business, on South Spring street, and, as a result, he exhibits a swollen face, and has sworn out a complaint for the arrest of a Mrs. Florence McDonald and two others, designated as John Does, on a charge of battery.

Nelleedoff claims that the McDonald woman entered his store in the forenoon, and presented a certain bill, the justice of which he disputed. Finding that she could not collect the amount she went away and returned again later, this time being accompanied by two male companions. After a few words had passed, the latter sailed in and punished Nelleedoff severely.

A PLAIN STATEMENT

During the Many Years that the

City of Paris

Dry * Goods * House

Has been doing busing in Southern California, it has had the reputation of carrying the largest, finest and best assorted line of goods carried in this city. All goods were purchased direct from first hands. The latest styles and novelties could always be found in this immense establishment. No misrepresentations were permitted. Goods were always marked in plain figures. "No auction trash," cast off styles or seconds, so called, were carried by the firm. Nothing but the best and most desirable goods. Now this well-selected stock of goods is being sold by the Creditors at about one-half the actual value. Purchasers can and do save from 40 to 75 per cent. The Creditors want and will make most any reasonable sacrifice to accomplish this end. Residents of this city and the surrounding country will save money by calling now and at once.

This week the windows will display a few of the Economy and Efficiency in Public School Affairs.

Raised and Lowered-Echoes Throop Day-Personal Notes of Brevities.

The following letter has been received for publication: "In common with many of your readers, I was very much interested in the efforts of the people and the school the efforts of the people and the schools upon a business basis, and spend no more public funds upon them than was necessary to secure the highest efficiency attainable, This policy worked well and seemed acceptable to all parties concerned; hence, I felt greatly disappointed when looking over the report in Wednesday's Times to notice that there seems to have been a tles concerned; hence, I felt greatly disappointed when looking over the report in Wednesday's Times to notice that there seems to have been a wholesale advance in expenditures, and no hint of any increase in efficiency of the schools. Does this signify that the business method is to be discarded and the political method substituted in its stead? or has there been a corresponding gain in efficiency to counterbalance this increased outlay?"

A comparison of the salary lists of teachers and janitors for the school years of 1892-3 and 1893-4 proves that the "wholesale advance in expenditures" referred to is not as serious a matter as the casual reader might infer. In the High School one teacher had her salary advanced $10 per month, and two other teachers were each advanced $5. At the Lincoln school one teacher's salary was advanced $7.22, and that of another $5 per month, while two others were granted a raise of $5. At the Garfield school the salaries of two teachers were cut down to the amount of $18.89, while another's salary was raised $5. Dave Coyle and Harry Shirk were examined on Friday before Justice Merriam on the charge of resisting an officer. The trouble occurred last Sunday night, when the defendants, with several companions, had become a trifle too demonstrative and were approached by Officers Goltman and Orr. After trying to disperse the crowd, Goltman took hold of Coyle to arrest him, whereupon the latter gave the officer a right-hander under the eveafter which he and Shirk were locked up, and were afterward released on bail, pending a hearing.

Deputy District Attorney Utley conducted the prosecution and Carl Schultz of Los Angeles represented the defendants. The evidence submitted bore out the facts as above stated, after which the case against Shirk was dismissed, and Coyle was held to answer in the Superior Court, with bail fixed at $500. er. MUCH-NEEDED RAIN.

Rain began falling about 10 o'clock Friday morning and continued steadily throughout the day. It was not a hard rain, but the gentle, persuasive kind that sloks into the ground and gets there, as it were. Notwithstanding the inclemency of the weather, the holiday shoppers were out in full force, and the stores did a rushing business. Toward evening the signs were for clearing. The downpour will do a vast amount of good and will brighten things up wonderfully. MUCH-NEEDED RAIN.

Since that ill-fated line was built and its operation suspended, and the present time, there have been several changes of grade on streets crossing the line, and other surrounding conditions have taken on the handmark of time. These it now becomes pertinent to harmonize, since there is real life in the effort at rejuvenation represented by Capt. Cross. The proposition to have this line in operation by June next is one that Santa Monica can afford to indorse generously, and the projectors are not likely to meet with anything unfriendly in treatment by Santa Monicans or others representing Santa-Monica interests. The town's ambition to be the resort par excellence of this Southern Coast can in no other line be fed as fat as by multiplying the means of transportation from the beach to the metropolis, Los Angeles, and through her to the whole outside world, and Santa Monica people seem to realize the fact.

A squad of fifty men swooped down upon the city, and encamped on the vacant lot on First and Globs. When daylight arrived they went to the City Marshal and asked permission to beg for food to eat. The Marshal and his deputy, Frank Slanker, procured fifty pounds of meat, about forty loaves of bread and an abundance of coffee, and gave the men, dance of coffee, and gave the men, who said they were very anxious for work. They said they were no hobos, and that if any one in the city wanted work done, they were ready to work, and that any man of the gang who would not work, could not travel with the crowd. The Anaheim Gazette has the following paragraph, in reference to the preliminary examination of Abram Aguilar, the victim of circumstances, if not of a conspiracy:

"Abram Aguilar was held to appear before the Superior Court in bonds of $8000, on a charge of murdering his wife. Incontrovertible evidence was introduced, showing that he was not in Los Angeles the day of the murder, nor for weeks previously, but two witnesses perjured themselves by swearing they saw him near the scene of the murder the day it was committed, and this perjured testimony succeeded in holding him against the testimony of others. Among the witnesses for Aguilar were Sam, Ed and Ben Kraemer, W. A. Witte, R. H. Seale, Herman Bennerscheldt and others, those against him two spiteful old women and a boy, who ought to be in San Quentin. Aguilar had no difficulty in furnishing bonds—the three Kraemer boys qualifying in $3000 apiece—and is now on his ranch farming, trying to be virtuous and happy."

REDLANDS.

At the last meeting of the City Trustees S. C. Haver was granted permission to construct and maintain a triangular park, at the junction of San Mateo street and Highland avenue, the city agreeing to cover the storm water ditch at that place and pipe water across Highland avenue to the grounds. This is an example worthy the emulation of other property-owners whose places are near similar plots in the public streets. Some such concessions have been made before by the city, notably at the intersection of Orange and Cajon streets and Citrus avenue, but nothing was done to transform the bare ground into a park. But Mr. Haver is a very public-spirited citizen, and will promptly put into execution his part of the proposition upon the completion by the city of its part of the agreement. The citizens of Rediands have talked much about city parks, for two years or more, yet have nothing to show for it, save some pieces of vacant and bare ground. The Santa Fe has planted and kept a little plot in grass and flowers, and the Southern Pacific has talked of doing something of the kind. Bloody Water Oozed Out Constantly, Peace Day or Night. Doctors Failed. Cured by Cuticura.

Tiychild's disease, which was the worst kind of Eczems, started on one cheek like a ringworm. It is spread and itched so the poor little fellow had no peace night or day. Then it started on the other cheek and chin, until all were raw as a piece of beefsteak, like a burn where you would rub off the skin, and bloody water cozed out constantly. His sufferings were terrible I know, aithough he was but six months old and could not tell how he suffered. I tied his hands that be would not scratch, then he would rub his poor little cheeks on his shoulders to relieve the intense itching. I had as good a doctor as was in Philadelphia, but he falled to relieve him. I read of the Cuticura Remedies, and at once purchased them. Strange to say that very night he rested without scratching his face, and from that on he improved and soon was entirely curred. I would like anyone suffering from this terrible disease to see my boy, who is in his twelfth year now. His complexion is as clear and smooth as can be. This is an unsolicited testimonia, and every word is true. I thank God for my child's recovery, and I thank the manufacturer of Cutticura.

We are Selling the Stock of

M. S. HEWES'

Boots and Shoes, formerly of 105 N. Spring St.

Who has been in business at the above stand for many years, and whose reputation for carrying the finest shoes and enjoying the finest trade in Los Angeles is well known to every wearer of fine footwear. We paid Mr. Hewes 65c on the $1 of what they cost him at the factory, as shown by his invoices. The inventory of stock on hand amounted to $29,797.80, and we paid him for the same $19,368.57.

We purchased this stock for the purpose of, first, securing the exclusive sale of Wright & Peters' Ladies' Fine Shoes and Dugan & Hudson's Boys', Youths', Misses' and Children's Fine Shoes. Second, to secure the good will and high class of trade that Mr. Hewes has hitherto enjoyed. To continue the same we have decided to make an advertisement of his entire stock and to sell it to the public as we bought it, at

65c ON THE $1.00

Hewes' Price.

We guarantee this statement to be true in every particular. This stock of Shoes cost Mr. Hewes 5 per cent. in addition to land it and place it in his fixtures, so that you are now making a saving of 40c on every dollar in the price of the shoe that you would have purchased from him. In other words, a shoe that he sold for $6, you are saving 40c on each dollar, buying it from us at $3.60, saving $2.40 on

A lady had ordered a pair of Wright & Peters' shoes from Mr. Hewes on special order. They came, and we notified her that they were at our store awaiting her, the account having been transferred from Mr. Hewes to us. Wright & Peters charged us the regular price for the shoes. The lady called today and wanted to buy these shoes at the ration of 65c on the $1. This we could not allow, but offered to keep the shoes and sell her a pair out of Hewes' stock at the same ratio that we purchased them, which she did, getting almost two pair for the price that she would have had to pay for the ordered

This is only the fifth day's sale of this fine stock. It is

Unbroken—the lines are Solid and Complete.

Wright & Peters are one of the four finest makes in the United States, two of the other three being Foster's and Geo. Barnard, we have complete lines in our stock. Dugan & Hudson's shoes stand without a peer as being the finest line for young people-made in America. Turner's line of men's fine shoes are considered as good as any made in the United States, and when you can buy such an array of fine footwear at 65c on the $1, every person in need or likely to be in need of shoes for months to come ought to avail themselves of this opportunity. These shoes are like $20 gold pieces, and in giving the public the benefit of our purchase at 65c on the $1 it is just like throwing 35c away. If we were a waiting concern, or if our policy was to sit down and hold on to every dollar that we purchased. we could realize fully 100 per cent. profit on the price that we paid for it, but we want to advertise these makes, and we want to emphasize the fact that while Mr. Hewes lost his fine trade by reason of his high prices,

A. Hamburger & Sons

will make it so emphatic and plain to the people of Los Angeles that in the future and for all'time to come that they are THE HOUSE where the finest of footwear is sold at the lowest possible price at which they can be purchased anywhere in the United States.

Sale Commences Daily at 9 a.m.
